

Shivaram Performs

Shivaram, exotic Hindu dancer, is seen here in a number of expressive poses. He will appear in Moyse Hall tomorrow night.

SHIVARAM TO DANCE AT MOYSE HALL

Shivaram of India will be guest artist at a program presented by SCOPE tomorrow night at 8:30 pm in Moyse Hall. He will perform the Kathakali, a dance technique at least 3000 years old.

This dance was developed in Malabar on the southwest coast of India and is danced by Hindus wearing extraordinary make-up and highly coloured costumes and head-dresses. In the opinion of many experts the Kathakali plays a role in the East corresponding to that of the ballet in the West.

Hindus believe that their dance was created by God "to represent truth and show the proper way of all action to the world;" and so the rules of the dancing have been strictly preserved for thousands of years and have become the source of dance-drama in the Hindu world.

Shivaram has been trained in the Kathakali since early childhood. His intricate body motions are expressive of a series of moods. His control of his body enables him to carry out all his moves with complete freedom and gracefulness.

His program includes a demonstration of Kathakali technique.

CLINIC AT RVC

A Marriage Clinic will be held tonight at 8.30 pm in the Common Room at RVC. The clinic is being sponsored by the Women's Union and will be given by Dr. George Simpson of the Montreal General Hospital and is open to all women students.

The clinic will include a lecture and a question period.

an explanation of temple sculptures, a parable in mime derived from the poetry of Kalidas, character sketches, the peacock dance, and "Indra Vijayam."

Shivaram is presently on his second North American tour. He has performed in numerous colleges in Canada and the U.S. Admission to the program is free.

Shakespeare Comedy Is Play Choice

Shakespeare's lighthearted comedy-romance, Much Ado About Nothing, has been chosen as the spring production of the McGill Department of English, it was announced yesterday.

This is the first comedy to be attempted by the department, which previously presented Measure For Measure, The Seagull, and Shelly's Cenci.

Officials said the production will have a non-realistic setting in mid-15th century Italian Gothic style, and would take the play's title "Literally." "We plan to spoof the zoot and zany aspects of the period, the irrational elements of love and romance, and even the serious parts of the play will not be treated with gravity," one said.

The same team that produced the earlier plays will again be in charge: Professor Stephen Porter, as producer-director; Althea Douglas as costumer; and Creighton Douglas in charge of lighting. The play will be produced in Moyse Hall on March 8, 9 and 10.

Launay Speaker At UN Club

Professor J.E.L. Launay, chairman of the French department, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the United Nations Club, Friday at 1 pm. He will speak on the North African crisis.

The club will continue activities Feb. 24, with a panel discussion on International Control Of Narcotics Traffic. Panel members will be Prof. K. I. Melville, chairman of the department of Pharmacology, Jim Hugessen, law student, and Joan Joseph, intercollegiate debater. The moderator will be George Schafer, debating chairman.

All students are invited to both events.

THE DAILY REVIEWS

MRT Plays "Apple Cart"

The production of the Apple Cart put on by the Montreal Repertory Theatre at the Van Horne Auditorium is an unfortunately good example of how bad sets can hurt a production. In this case the sets were so gaudy that it was hard to concentrate on the actors, while in the second act the lighting was used primarily to illuminate the brilliant drapes swirled across the stage, so that the actors were left in semi-silhouette.

The Apple Cart is a play which even today is not very dated. It can be very funny and offers considerable possibilities for satire. However, Shaw wrote it to be performed with vivacity and speed, and it is puerile to say that in

Satanic Forces Topic of Talk

Dean H. N. Fieldhouse, Professor D. O. Hebb, and Rabbi W. Shuchat of the Shaar Hashomayim Congregation, will participate in a panel discussion on the topic "Are There Satanic Forces?" The meeting, which takes place tomorrow at 5 p.m. in the Walter M. Stewart Room of the Union, will be chaired by Prof. Maxwell Cohen, of the Faculty of Law.

Dean Fieldhouse, who holds degrees from the University of Sheffield and from Oxford, came to Canada in 1928 after teaching history at the University of Sheffield. From 1928 to 1945, he was a professor of history at the University of Manitoba. In 1945, he came to McGill, where he has been the Chairman of the Department of History since 1947, and Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences since 1948.

Professor Hebb, a graduate of Dalhousie, McGill, and Harvard, has been a Research Fellow of the Montreal Neurological Institute, lecturer at Queens University, and a Research Fellow at the Yerkes Laboratories of Primate Biology. In 1947, he became Professor of Psychology at McGill, and has been

Chairman of the department since 1948.

Rabbi Shuchat has been the Rabbi of the Shaar Hashomayim Congregation since 1946. He is a graduate of McGill and of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, where he was ordained. Before coming to Montreal, he held posts in Albany and Buffalo. He is a past president of the Board of Jewish Ministers of Montreal.

PREMED SOCIETY SPONSORS COURSE

It has been the policy of the Pre Med Society in past years to sponsor a First Aid Course as given by St. John's Ambulance Corps. Again this year a First Aid Course will be given, which will commence next week.

The Course, which is a very elementary and basic one in nature, includes most necessary first aid principles and their application in various accident situations requiring immediate attention. The Course includes, among other things, the application of bandages to various types of injuries, the initial treatment of fractures, hemorrhage, and Shock, and the administration of Artificial Respiration. The importance of first aid in averting injuries from becoming complex and often times fatal, makes the knowledge of first aid quite practical and of great asset to anyone acquainted with its application. The course being

SABEL TO SPEAK TO GERMAN CLUB

The German Club will sponsor Dr. L. Sabel, Trade Commissioner and Consulate of West Germany to speak tonight at 8:30 pm in Union. The subject of Dr. Sabel's talk will be "The Economic Recovery of West Germany".

Dr. Sabel worked for German Industry up until 1934 when he became the Advisor to the Government of National China. From 1940 to 1948 he was professor of Political Science in Peking. For three years he was Economic professor at Manhattan College in New York. In 1951 he joined the Diplomatic Service.

ley Lamet and Lysistrata by Rita Roy were at times excellent. Amanda particularly is worth mentioning; her mischievous and wholly pleasing laughter at the expense of her colleagues helped the audience of share the joke.

The only actor who was, I thought, really rather poor, was John Gibbon as Vanhattan the American ambassador. He burlesqued the role to such an extent that it was at times almost unpleasant.

In spite of all the criticisms I have made I must hasten to add that for an evening's light entertainment M.R.T.'s "The Apple Cart" is worth visiting.

Editorial

NEW BABY

A new magazine will appear on the Campus on February 1, 1956. It will be called The McGill Daily Review. The magazine, edited and published by the McGill Daily, will contain the journalistic highlights of the issues of the preceding term.

The magazine, which will sell for fifteen cents, will be divided into an Editorial and a Features section. In it will be reprinted what we feel were the outstanding articles that have appeared on our pages.

It is hoped that the new addition to the literary scene (this classification will undoubtedly be questioned) of McGill University will fill a void which now exists. The articles will be chosen, first on their literary merit, and second because they reflect a particular circumstance or line of thought that has had some significance in the McGill community at the time.

The magazine will be one which we hope you will buy, not only to read, but to keep. We hope that it will serve as a historical memento as well as a literary one.

Approximately one thousand editions will be printed, seven hundred of which will be sold on the Campus. It is our hope it will prove successful enough to justify its continuation.

ON WITH THE CHASE

Nineteen hundred and fifty-six is a leap year. This means not only an extra day in February, but that young ladies have a recognized permission to chase, pursue and otherwise ensnare the young man of their choice in an open and above-board manner. This is known as an exercise of their democratic right. In reality, young women will do their utmost to trap eligible young men irrespective of the calendar year. A leap year simply makes it official.

Viewing the entire field of conflict and competition with an objective eye, it strikes us that all is confusion. Rather ruffled McGill males are in conscientious pursuit of the knee-socked co-ed of their dreams and vice versa. Whether the prize for the victor is worth the effort is irrelevant. The point at issue is that the game is not being played with true sportsmanship, fair play and what not. One set of combatants insists so long and loud that it is the "weaker sex", the "helpless" sex, that both sides now believe it and the game has deteriorated into a general free-for-all. In actuality both sides are more than capable of taking care of themselves and their opponents.

This Thaw War (the term Cold War is unrealistic and Hot War might be regarded as somewhat crude) is conducted with an amazing amount of skulduggery on both sides. Probably in no other field of human conflict has there been so much rationalization and self-justification as the sexes battle both to escape and to vanquish. The masculine claim, that they are at least honest and their intentions obvious, is simply evidence of the fact that they are men. The feminine claim, that they are only the meek and the harrowed is a downright lie. Devious and cunning stratagems are employed by both sides. There are not even two unbroken parts, for both sides have numerous rifts and intrigues within their own ranks.

But this is as it should be. In the university community the student moves in a remarkably well-ordered rut. Lectures, exams, lunch hours, labs, all take place in a fixed order. University regulations and rules guide us gently through the day, from Roddick Gates to the Currie Gym. We must take care that sex, unlike fraternities, remains officially unrecognized. Otherwise male-female relationships will become about as exciting as an essay for English 100C. May the chase continue.

Letters to the Editor

Lovable Cad

Sir:

Mr. R. Durand belongs to that class of people I mentioned in my article on Justice and Morality, who lack the emotional depth to understand the more unfortunate members of our society. His venom will contribute in its small way to our crime cycle, to the mass production of the very rapists he deplores, et cetera. The unrepentant sinner "is a menace to the society and must be eradicated." You have been too much influenced by the Old Testament. Your emotion, strong in the law, is the well-spring of the law's brutality, it has motivated the majority of Western excesses. No, it is Mr. Durand who is the menace to society, but he must not be eradicated; he must be restrained until, and if, society finds a way to mature him ethically. If this requires society to "give him the run of the Waldorf", by all means let it do so. It will be cheaper to the society than to let him practice law. Roland Durand has the same mental defect we associate with criminals.

Mr. Durand and I, I'm afraid, have different systems of value judgements. In my moral code there is no contradiction in bearing no malice toward a filthy criminal or toward a lawyer who is promoting human misery. As I said, I love people, the clean and the filthy alike, the upright and the degraded, the rapist and the raped.

It's just that I differentiate between acts and people, professions and people. When I was a child I was naive fool enough to take Jesus at face value when he said love your neighbor and love your enemy. Try it sometime, Mr. Durand, you lovable cad. It's an amazing philosophy.

Donald Kingsbury.

No Respect

Sir:

It is a common fact that apathy is one of the general characteristics of the McGill student. To couple indifference and ignorance, and then to illustrate it in a usually passable paper, is just reflecting the typical McGill attitude to its Alma Mater.

Could it be that we cannot spell our own second name? How do you spell Macdonald? The first person I met looked at the first page and the first word in the drama article and (at first) tried an "Mc" spelling. When corrected she remained unperturbed. How could she?

How could you! To incorrectly spell the name of McGill's greatest benefactor and largest college is an insult to any decent student.

Have you no self respect? Please, we beg you, correct this pathetic blunder against the name of McGill itself.

P.S.—What Mac represents to us could not be slightly harmed by any misspelling so we would appreciate it if this letter were taken as a mild protest and not the basis for a drawn-out one-sided battle.

B. Ed. III.

Checked Files

Sir:

In a letter to the Jan. 23, 1956, issue of the Daily, Mr. Rodney Kerr pointed out that one speaker at last Friday's meeting, in the "bliss of his ignorance", completely forgot the "fact" that the University of Montreal had paraded peacefully last March 17, and thence acts of rioting and vandalism had broken out.

This writer, at the Students' Society gathering, stated that McGill students had no previous historical example for this riot (Dec. 9). I stand by this statement. One thousand University of Montreal students marched to City Hall Wednesday, Dec. 7. This was an orderly demonstration, in fact so peaceful that His Honour Jean Drapeau, our mayor, asked the students to return.

On March 17, 1955, contrary to Mr. Kerr's statement, U of M students did not march in a parade. In fact this writer checked the Star files for March 18, and failed to find the University of Montreal, or any other University, named as staging a demonstration and thus provoking the rioting. The St. Patrick's Day vandalism was carried out and organized from the outset by hoodlums. Our Dec. 9 march was but an orderly student protest. No parallel between the two can be drawn.

Brahm Campbell.

An Apology

Sir:

People are just "last minute", I suppose there isn't a person who hasn't cut, at one time or another, more cake than he could eat. Well that was our problem, a couple of days ago, when we, in the rush to get all the publicity available, thought that the CBC offer to televise parts of the show was very advantageous. It was not until later, that we considered the time, the extra rehearsals and the special demands upon the cast and executive; demands that would make the event as impossibility, or at most, if produced, a failure. So we of the Red and White cast would like to apologize to you Sir, and the McGill Dailiers for the mis-information that was released and printed on the 24th.

However, I will be on the Tabloid show next Monday, Jan. 30th plugging the show and McGill University.

Ron Clark,

Producer, "Wet Paint".

Former Redmen Coach Reaches Squash Final

Former McGill squash coach Al Molloy Jr., came within two points of winning the United States National Professional Squash Tournament held last week-end. Al was defeated in the finals by top-seeded Al Chassard of the Sauncon country club of Bethlehem, Penn., 10-15, 15-6, 10-15, 15-13, 15-13.

The tournament was held at the New York Athletic Club and featured the top professional squash players in the United States. In fact, Molloy, unseeded in this tournament, had to defeat two nationally ranked squash stars to enter the finals. He defeated last year's champion, John Wizuki, in the first round match, and then with surprising ease, breezed by seeded Jim Reid.

Al Molloy Jr. joined the McGill Sports Staff as squash coach and remained at that position for two years, during which time the McGill squash team won two intercollegiate squash titles. After an eighteen month stint in the U. S. marines, he rejoined the McGill staff for another year.

He was then appointed instructor of the Mount Royal Tennis Club where he groomed Smith Chapman and Eleanor Dodge, both recently acknowledged as top ranking juniors in Canada. Eighteen year old Chapman, an ex-McGillian is both the Canadian Junior Tennis Champion and the Provincial Junior Squash Champion, having defeated Dave Pemberton-Smith for the Squash Title.

Eleanor Dodge, Al's female protege is Canadian Junior Women's Titleholder.

Al moved to the United States last year where he took up position of Tennis and Squash coach at the Buffalo Squash and Tennis Club, reputed to be one of the finest clubs of its kind in the U.S.

Squash Jottings

The Intercollegiate Squash Championship will be held at Toronto on Feb. 24-5 . . . McGill is favoured to retain the title this year and bring home the bacon for the tenth straight time . . . Coach Al Molloy expects his toughest competition to come from Varsity who have beaten some top flight squash teams in exhibitions earlier this year . . . Tony LaFleur and Tim Wagg have been shinning so far this year. Tony and Tim defeated the third and fourth ranked college squash stars on McGill's recent jaunt south of the boarder . . . The team by the way, made admirable showings at Dartmouth, and Harvard.

COMMERCE DEFEATS PANTHERS SET NEW SCORING RECORD

Commerce 3 and 4, set a new Intramural scoring record on Monday night by edging the Panthers of Arts and Science by a score of 109 to 8 (eight). After a slow start which saw the Commencemen leading 44 to 4 (four), at half time, they piled it on the Artsmen in the second half in an attempt to set a new record.

Mark Wasserman led the Commerce team with 38 points. Other scorers for the record breakers were Tom Lamont with 30, Alec Schaffer with 16, Mitch Klein 15, and Murray Shostack 10.

Wasserman was a former star for the YMHA junior team which reached the Eastern Canada finals last year. Lamont, Klein, and Shostak, are former members of the McGill Intermediate team; while Schaffer played briefly for the DeLasalles club in the senior

MUSTANGS, MONNOT, LEADING LEAGUE

The Western Mustangs seem headed for their eleventh consecutive basketball championship this year. Only the Toronto Blues have yet to be beaten by the Mustangs, and the Blues have not yet met the Mustangs.

Ray Monnot, Western's 6' 6" centre, has jumped off to a commanding lead in the individual scoring race with an average of 25.8 points in four games. Redmen rookie, Don Wright, is in second place with an average of 22 points per game. Defending scoring champion Leon DuPlessis, of McGill got off to a slow start this year, but his performance against the Gaels last Saturday indicates that he will be in the thick of the scoring fight by the end of the year.

Results of only one game played by McMaster and Toronto have been received and so the scoring records of the players on these teams have not been included in the statistics. John Dacyshyn of the Blues, who has 18 points in one game is expected to be a contending force in the scoring race.

Be Kind to Your Banker

Robert Louis Stevenson never stored up much treasure for himself, despite the sales of TREASURE ISLAND. In fact, he was so often broke he developed a positive hatred of bankers, making nasty remarks about them every chance he got. In EBB TIDE, for instance, there's a character who is "victor over circumstances and the malignity of bankers". In THE RAJAH'S DIAMOND, Lady Vandaleur remarks "You would despise in a common banker the imbecility you expect to find in women". And in ESSAYS ON THE ART OF WRITING, Stevenson declares that readers of the penny press "must be made to feel at home in the houses of fraudulent bankers and wicked dukes".

Banks and bankers aren't quite as bad as all that — honestly. While the Royal Bank can't ALWAYS supply you with funds each time you run short, we do lend money quite often. We like to get it back, through. So if we seem a mite cautious, you'll understand. However, if you'd care to open an account, we'll be just as cautious about keeping your money safe. There are six Royal Bank branches near McGill — at Peel & Sherbrooke St. Catherine & McGill College, St. Catherine & Stanley, Sherbrooke & Bleury, Sherbrooke & Guy, and Sherbrooke & Fort. The Royal Bank of Canada.

After five years, the Sports Dept. has acquired a new picture of Joe Anderson. It is with great pleasure that we present this new portrait of our basketball coach with the sincere hope that they like it, for we will probably be using it for the next five years.

OLYMPIC GAMES QUESTION TO BE DEBATED

The first debate of the new year in the recently inaugurated On Campus series will take place today at 1 pm in the Walter Stewart Room. The topic under discussion will be "Resolved that the Olympic Games contribute more to world tension than to world harmony".

This topic will be the one used during the coming Winter Carnival Debating Conference, to take place Winter Carnival weekend. Upholding the Affirmative of the resolution will be Herman Gelber and Gyde Shepherd. Gelber is the co-chairman of Arts and Science debating and is considered one of the leading senior debaters at McGill. Gyde Shepherd is the chairman of SCOPE.

Debating the negative side will be a team of Brian Cuthbertson, a senior debater, and David Franklin, the President of the United Nations Club. Av Cohen, president of the Students' Society, will judge today's contest.

Chairman of the Series, Stu Smith, is looking forward to an enthusiastic attendance. Says Smith: "Judging from the interest shown in the On Campus series so far, these debates are on their way to becoming regular Wednesday noon-hour fixtures. This, of course, was the prime reason for the series having been organized; by giving more people a chance to debate and by giving more people an opportunity to watch experienced debaters in action, we may best hope to increase interest, participation, and, hence, proficiency in the art of debating."

Students Revive Classics Club

A group of students have decided to revive the long dormant Classics Club of McGill University, which has not functioned since 1940. The purpose of the club is to foster interest in any aspect of classical studies, such as philosophy, literature, drama, etc. Meetings will consist of debates and discussions dealing with topics of classical interest. No knowledge of the Greek or Latin languages is required.

All students interested are asked to please contact Steven Granun at MA. 4352, Joan DeNezzo at PL. 0477, or any member of the Classics Dept. staff.

REVUE INTERESTS "TOAST OF TOWN"

The Red and White Revue's publicity department announced yesterday that the Revue executive is presently awaiting a call from Ed Sullivan Enterprises in reply to a telegram sent to Mr. Sullivan last week.

This telegram was sent to Mr. Sullivan personally at the request of his assistant producer, who after speaking to Bob Alrod and Ron Clark on Friday, was very enthusiastic about the possibilities of sending a representative from Toast of the Town to see "Wet Paint". Further details on this matter will be announced through the Daily.

Mt. Royal Night To Open Carnival

Mount Royal Night, Thursday, Feb. 16, will be the beginning of the Winter Carnival weekend.

Students will form a torchlight parade, starting from a blazing bonfire at the foot of Remembrance Road and ending at the Ice Palace on Beaver Lake. The Carnival will be officially opened by Principal and Vice Chancellor F. Cyril James at the Palace, which will be bigger than ever before. University officials, civic dignitaries, Carnival princesses and the MacDonald College Queen will also take part in the ceremony.

The Montreal Figure Skating Club will give a performance on Beaver Lake which will be followed by tugs of war between Wilson and Douglas Halls, and the east and west wings of RVC.

Activities will then move to the Ski Hill where the Redbird's Ski Instructors' Alliance and the Canadian Ski Patrol will demonstrate various skills and tricks.

A dance in the Chalet featuring Russ Meredith's Orchestra, and a display of fireworks, will conclude the evening.

a very simple one does not require any previous knowledge in first aid or any field or subject which it is connected. The course itself is given free of charge by the St. John's Ambulance as a public-service to the community, however, a bandage and book on first aid, that is required for all participants, can be obtained from the St. John's Ambulance for only $1.00.

The course will be given once a week for a period of seven weeks. So that there shall be no conflict with lectures, and to give all those interested an opportunity to attend, the course will be given in evening. The course will be held on either Monday or Wednesday at the time most convenient for the students attending the course. There will be a booth in the Arts Building all day Thursday, January 26, at which time all those interested can register for the course and obtain further information.

Cameron Addresses Phi Epsilon Alpha

Dr. Cameron, of the Allen Memorial Institute, last night addressed the Phi Epsilon Alpha Society on the topic "Psychiatry and its Impact on Modern Thought".

Dr. Cameron dealt with five areas in which psychiatry has effected everyday thinking. He mentioned that general attitudes about sex and women have changed considerably since the nineteenth century, and stated that psychiatry is attempting to help man to develop in his quest to extend his control over his own resources.

The idea of man as rational being has been modified, and we are now beginning to understand the irrationalities that appear in man, he said. Dr. Cameron pointed out that values are relative and that they reside in the person and not in the act.

Man's conception of time, and his study of science itself have been made more relevant to the individual rather than to absolute values. Dr. Cameron emphasized that there is a great difference between being able to answer questions and being able to find new questions to be answered. The latter, he said, far outweighs the former, though both are necessary.
